AN APPEAL TO SERVE

Dear neighbors, friends, those new to Sullivan and long-time residents,

If you ever wanted to help out your community, now is your chance. With the coming local elections (see related article under Town and School Meetings) in March, there will be a variety of elected official or committee vacancies to fill. While there is a strong core group of people who fill many roles, there is always a need for fresh ideas, different skill sets and new energy to keep the town running smoothly. If you would like to be appointed to a committee or serve in an elected capacity, contact Town Clerk, Mary Hull, by January 31, 2020.

If you have a few spare hours a month, the Planning Board or Conservation Committee may be the perfect place to start learning about some of our regulations or goals. The Trustees of Trust Funds are responsible for managing investment funds.

If you are interested in serving as an elected official there is plenty of opportunity for that. Elected officials include Selectmen, Town Clerk/Tax Collector, Town Treasurer, Health Officer, Budget Committee, Zoning Board or Trustees of Cemeteries.

In terms of time commitment, the Budget Committee usually meets about 4 times per year, while the Zoning Board meets on an as needed basis. The Health Officer position responds to issues as they occur. The Cemetery Trustees are responsible for cemetery maintenance and improvements.

The Selectmen positions are more time consuming, but once an administrative assistant is on board, the demand on Selectmen should reduce. There will be two Selectmen slots to fill in 2020. It is paramount to fill those positions since the Town can't operate with only one Selectman.

The Town Clerk/Tax Collector position is very responsible because it requires a knowledge of NH laws, auto registration, tax (and other revenue collection), etc. Equally as important is the Treasurer's position, which includes the responsibility of managing all Town funds.

Some of these positions are compensated by a stipend, but mostly it is the sheer pleasure of working with other deeply committed individuals on a regular basis.

If you are on the fence about serving in any capacity, I suggest you attend a meeting or reach out to any of the Selectmen or Chairmen to gain a better understanding of the duties and responsibilities of any of the committees.

I can't help but take this opportunity to say "Thank you" to those who already serve. Your hard work in the Town does not go unnoticed.

I appreciate your consideration,

Laura Merrifield, Chairman
Board of Selectmen

DEADLINE FOR NEXT ISSUE – FEB. 15 – In order to get the newsletter out before Town Meeting, the next deadline will be Feb 15th.

“LIBRARY FOOTNOTES”

Here we are, at the start of a brand new year... Have you thought of what you would like to accomplish this year? Have you set a few new goals for yourself or your family? Maybe you want to make the library a part of your routine this year, reading a book as a family, or trying to read a book a month. Whatever your goals are, we hope that you will include the Sullivan Public Library throughout the year.

We offer a few different things here. There are three continuous book groups that meet and they would love to have new participants. The 1st Tuesday of the month hosts the Cookbook Group, where we choose a recipe out of a specific cookbook, make it, bring it to share and critique it. The 2nd Saturday Book Group reads some light mystery type novels. And the 3rd Thursday Group reads biographical novels, historical fiction or classics.

The Saturday Morning Conversation Café is going strong as well. There is always room around the table for one more....

We would like to ask each one of you to please come in or call and help us to make sure that we have all of your current contact information. If you prefer an email as opposed to a phone call or vice versa, come in and let us know.

We would like to thank all those who have so generously donated their time or materials to us. It is difficult to do what we do without your support. We appreciate each one of you.

Yours Respectfully,
Paulette Tuttle and Dott Miles

Public Notice.

The Sullivan Public Library Board of Trustees will hold their monthly meetings on January 9, February 13 and March 12, 2020 at 3:30 PM at the library. The purpose of the meetings will be to formally receive any donations, hear reports, and conduct any business related to the administration of the library. As always, the public is welcome.

REMEMBERING - "YESTERDAY & TODAY" 2020 Calendars are Still Available!

This year's Friends of the Sullivan Library Calendar features fascinating comparisons of past views of various sites in Sullivan with current views. Many thanks to town historian, Chris Pratt, for finding the old photographs in the archives and to Bob Switzer for the present day pictures. The calendars are available for $15 at the Sullivan Library.

From the Archives

by Chris Pratt

“Whatever happened to the cannon next to the Soldier’s Monument?” That question was posed to me the other day based on some Facebook post. To my knowledge there was never a cannon next to Sullivan’s monument honoring those soldiers from our town who died in the Civil War. That statement is based on numerous photographs of the monument taken over the years. None of the photographs has a cannon in them. The question, however, is how do these stories get started? Is there a “grain of truth” or is it yet another example of how fast “urban myths” spread in our age of instant communication?

As I have written several times before, the Soldier’s Monument came about because of efforts by the Sullivan Female Circle of Industry which had spent the war knitting socks and scarves for the soldiers as well as making preserves and cordials for the troops. They applied their “industry” toward raising funds to erect a monument honoring the soldiers who were killed or died from disease in the War. Sullivan was the first town in New Hampshire to raise and dedicate such a monument. After the War, the United States Government had tons of “war surplus” items that could be had for the asking. Many towns acquired guns, cannonballs and other such things for their monuments. Sullivan acquired two piles of cannonballs through the office of the New Hampshire Adjutant General. Our cannonballs would not fit in a field gun or other type of cannon as they were designed for use in siege guns or the large, squat guns known as mortars. However, there is no evidence that there was ever a cannon of any type next to the monument.

As for the cannonballs, a question might be asked as to why they are welded together. According to one longtime resident, when they were loosely stacked, Halloween pranksters would roll them down Centre Street. Tiring of the arduous task of rolling them back to the Monument, the “powers that be” welded them together. I can’t confirm or deny that story, but it seems logical.

Halloween pranksters were also responsible for the disappearance of the Town Hearse. Like most New England hill towns, Sullivan retained its horse drawn hearse well into the 20th century—even after the need for such a vehicle had passed. It was kept in the hearse house next to the original gate at the Meeting House Cemetery. The goal of the pranksters was to think of some ingenious place to put the hearse. Sometimes it might be on the Church lawn or somebody’s driveway or simply left on Centre Street. Tiring of the game, the Selectmen put it up for sale. All I know is that it was sold to a town in Vermont. Unfortunately, the bill of sale or other documentation has been lost so we don’t know exactly where it went. A major effort to research the final resting place of the hearse during the Bicentennial Celebration in 1987 was not successful.

Another interesting myth was proposed to me by another long-time resident. This is an example of a ‘grain of truth’ in a rumor. At the time the town was working on mapping the Meeting House Cemetery owing to some problems of not knowing exactly where “occupied” graves were located, the resident told me that there was an unmarked grave that had an unknown soldier buried supposedly by a tree that had been removed. He asked me if I knew anything about it, because there was a fear that someday it might be disturbed when a new grave was dug. Searching the records I could not find such a person. I puzzled over it until I read an account by Alan Rumrill, Director of the Historical Society of Cheshire County, and realized that a story from another town had been “transferred” to Sullivan. That was the story of Henry Stevens. Stevens was from Stoddard and enlisted in the Civil War in 1864. He had hardly been inducted when he died of typhoid fever. A body was shipped home, but it was discovered to be another young man. Efforts to find his identity came to naught, so he was buried along with other Civil War dead (including Henry Stevens after his body was finally found) in the Robb Cemetery in South Stoddard. So, I think it is safe to assume that future grave diggers will not find the remains of an unknown soldier in the Sullivan Cemetery.

Fortunately, we have a very comprehensive town history that provides great detail on the town from 1787 to about 1910. More recent history can be checked in the Town Archives Collection. However, every once in a while a story comes along that causes this historian to scratch his head. How do these stories get started?

WITH GRATITUDE TO ALL Memphis, the dog, is home!

To the residents of Sullivan:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation and gratitude to everyone that provided support, direct or otherwise, in the recovery and rescue of my missing dog, Memphis.

Memphis is a large, ten and a half year old greyhound who managed to escape in the wee hours of November 30th. For those not familiar with the breed, greyhounds have half the body fat of humans and other dogs. So if you're cold, they are even colder. They also have a very short, single coat of fur. As such, they are not "outdoor" dogs. Hardly equipped to handle winter weather in New England without ample protection for any extended period of time, it was critical that he be found as soon as possible.

I was overcome with both grief and panic as the first two nights of his disappearance brought bitter, single digit temperatures. And if things couldn't get much worse, the third day delivered a snowstorm that dumped one and a half feet of the white stuff in the area. Again, temperatures rose no higher than the teens. Sadly, no one had seen him anywhere. I was beyond desperate and struggling to cling to what little hope I had left for his survival.

On the fifth day, a "miracle" occurred. Dan Arlen just happened to be turkey hunting on the top of a densely wooded mountain near his home when he spotted Memphis lying in the snow under a tree, literally on death's door. Fortunately, Memphis still had his collar and tags on, and Dan called me straightaway. I would like to thank him and his sons again for saving Memphis' life. They were also instrumental in transporting Memphis down from the treacherous terrain and into a waiting van where he was rushed to the emergency vet's.

After hours of examination and stabilization, Memphis was then transported to the VCA hospital in Concord where he received 24/7 ICU care for the next seven days. Miracle Memphis is back home now and continuing to recover from his nightmarish ordeal. That he even survived just boggles my mind. Mercifully, he has suffered no permanent damage from the severe frostbite he sustained on his belly and all four limbs. At present he remains quite frail and extremely underweight. In time, aided by his voracious appetite, he is expected to make a full recovery.

While I also received a great deal of phenomenal help from several external organizations and resources, it was the people of Sullivan who ultimately turned a potential tragedy into an amazing triumph. I am keenly aware that there were many folks in town that contributed to the cause (my deepest apologies for not naming everyone), but there is one other special person beside Dan that I would like to recognize – and that person is Sgt. Jason Yarosz. Once I convinced him that I was not some nefarious character idly cruising up and down the streets at 3:00AM, he didn't hesitate to join in the search. From day one, his kind, unwavering support and assistance went above and beyond what anybody could possibly request or expect. Jason modestly claims that it is "his job". I respectfully beg to differ with him. The job of the police is to maintain law and order. It does not include hours and hours, day after day, of off duty help trying to find a lost dog. So, I am eternally indebted to him as well.

Despite the awful circumstances, through all of this I have had the pleasure and privilege of meeting many unfamiliar residents in town. I've always loved living here, but these interactions were simply the icing on the cake! I am indeed one lucky individual to be living in this gem of a place quietly nestled in the hills...

Thank you all,
Gloria Bimonte

RECIPE CORNER

with Ginni McByrne

I feel this is one of the most delicious "comfort foods" there is. It is very different from the American goulash/chop suey as it uses a lot of Hungarian paprika. The smell throughout the house is intoxicating and don't forget to serve with bread to sop up the gravy! Please email your recipes and a brief story and/or helpful hint to g\_mcbyrne@yahoo.com .

Hungarian Goulash

2 medium onions, quartered	2 tsp. butter
1 ½ lbs. stewing beef, trimmed	1 tsp. caraway seeds
2 cups beef broth	1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. Hungarian paprika	¼ cup flour
¼ tsp. pepper	1 tsp. salt
1 ½ cups cut-up carrots	3 cups quartered potatoes

In a large pot, melt butter and add onions. Cook 'til translucent. Stir in caraway seeds and paprika and mix well. In a bowl, dredge the stew beef with flour. Add beef to the onion mixture and cook for about 2-3 minutes. Slowly add about 1/4 cup of the beef broth to lift the brown bits off the bottom of the pan. Then add remaining broth, diced tomatoes, potatoes and carrots, salt & pepper. Stir and bring to a boil, cover, then reduce to a simmer for about 1 ½ hours or until tender. Serve by itself or over egg noodles or mashed potatoes. Don't forget the bread! ENJOY!!

***HELPFUL HINT***

**If you're not sure if your pillow is still doing its job, ask yourself:

- Is the foam or batting inside the form lumpy or bumpy?
- Does your feather pillow have to be punched or fluffed up for support?
  - If you fold the pillow in half, does it stay folded?

If you answered yes to any of these, it's time for a nice, new pillow. If you'd rather your old pillows didn't end up in the garbage, they make great pet beds**
